

Keep Your Tuning More Stable All Year Long!

What drives a piano out of tune? The prime culprit is the seasonal fluctuation of humidity. Even with whole house humidity control, fluctuations of indoor humidity from season to season are often enough to make the tuning of your piano suffer noticeably.

The Piano Lifesaver System by

Dampchaser monitors the relative humidity inside your piano, boosting it in the winter and bringing it down in the summer. Regular servicing of your piano by your tuner/technician will still be necessary, but the quality of the tuning will stay more consistent between visits.

A Page Turn is a Disaster Waiting to Happen!

The Adapt-a-stand is a music stand that sits on the music desk of your piano, giving it the capacity to hold six full sheets of music. It is 46 inches wide, with a bottom lip that is 1.75 inches deep. Rubber tips on the feet of this stand secure it even on smaller music desks.

This product is perfect for spreading out multi-page scores and playing duets. Composing or making markings on music sheets is easy because of the support given by the smooth surface of the Adapt-a-stand.

This stand allows you to keep several music books handy as you practice, even if the music desk on your piano is only big enough to hold one book at a time. Or set the Adapt-a-stand on a sturdy music stand, and enjoy all of the benefits with any instrument you wish to play.

The Adapt-A-Stand is manufactured by Pianoman Products Company. For further details visit www.adapt-a-stand.com.

Even Small Children can Sit Comfortably at the Piano and Learn to Use the Pedals.

The early stages of learning to play piano are times of delightful discovery and exploration, and one of the enchanting features of the piano is its ability to sustain a sound after a key is released. This involves the use of the pedals.

Unfortunately children who are small enough that they need a foot stool to sit properly at the piano have been unable to use the pedals without sacrificing good playing posture.

This adjustable piano footstool changes all of that. Children are able to make full use of the pedals from the time they begin to play!

Enhance Your Freedom at the Piano by Sitting at the Correct Height.

The height at which you sit when you play the piano really does make a difference. Proper posture at the piano enhances technical freedom, and allows the player to make music with less fatigue and greater expressiveness.

It is no longer necessary to prop children up on telephone directories in order for them to be at the right height. An adjustable piano bench allows all members of the family to sit at the height that allows them to play their best. Sitting more comfortably won't guarantee that your children will practice more willingly, but it certainly can't hurt!

Adjustable benches are available in a number of colors and formats.
